

2001 Grants

- $10,000 to The Institute for Single Jewish Parents, a program of the Agency for Jewish Education. The grant will fund a Mother/Child family camp to provide emotional support for single mothers and their children and enhance their Jewish affiliation in a recreational setting. The grant will also support a Shabbat Dinner program for single parent families.
- $10,000 to B.B.Y.O – BBG International Mind, Body and Attitude Convention. The grant will support a leadership training convention hosted by Detroit's local BBG chapter for its high school aged members throughout the United States and Canada. The convention will be held at Camp Maas.
- $2,340 to Sarah's Tent – A support group for women who are Jews by choice. The grant will support a yearlong continuation of a pilot project that reaches out to Jews by choice, helping them to understand and build Jewish tradition into their lives.
- $10,000 to The Mothers' Team Project – A Kollel Ladies Auxiliary League's short-term crisis intervention program. The grant will fund a women to women program that provides temporary help for families in crisis due to the death the mother, or her absence because of illness, troubled pregnancy or the serious illness of a family member.
- $10,000 to The Women's Health Initiative of Jcare – a health care project for residents of Jewish Apartments and Services. The grant will support preventive care education and medical services not covered by Medicare for residents of the apartments, 89 percent of whom are women, to help them age in place and avoid moving to full care facilities.
- $5,000 to GOALS (Getting our Jewish Adolescents to Learn about Sexuality) – a project of the Michigan Jewish AIDS Coalition. The grant will support a program for girls set in a context of Jewish values and beliefs to help them understand Jewish and societal messages about sexuality, self-esteem and personal power and to develop strategies that will help them during adolescence.

Imagine the Possibilities.

- $3,000 to Shalom Bayit – an outreach project that is a Jewish response to domestic violence and abuse. The grant will help educate the Jewish community and increase its awareness of domestic violence by paying to produce and distribute a Shalom Bayit brochure. The brochure will help women recognize signs of abuse and find help.
